

DOLLARS TO DOUGHNUTS

IMAGINING A SUSTAINABLE FUTURE

Profile: Lloyd R. Prentice

Lloyd has an MA degree from Stanford University in Public Affairs Communication. His career spans corporate communication, academia, magazine publishing, and educational software development. His works include Aya Takeo, a three-volume manga for young adults; two novels, Freein' Pancho and The Gospel of Ashes; a technical programming book, Build It with Nitrogen: The Fast-Off-The-Block Erlang Web Framework; and more than 25 educational computer software products for major publishers.

Lloyd lives in a mixed eastern white pine and northern red oak forest four miles from the Atlantic Ocean in a town noted for saltwater marshes. He spends winter months in a small coastal village on the Gulf of California side of Baja California Sur, Mexico. He hopes forests, oceans, marshes, and the scenic vistas of Baja provide future generations with as much joy as they give him.

This Book Asks:

- What kind of world do we want for our children and theirs?
- How must we manage affairs on spaceship Earth to achieve it?

This book is about urgency.
If we don't act— what then?

This Book Is For:

All who care about a just and sustainable future: climate and environment researchers, students, policy-makers, activists, parents, and grandparents

Contact:

Website: dollarstodoughnuts.com

Email: dollarstodoughnuts@writersglen.com

Book Facts

Publisher: Writers Glen Publications
Publications Language: English

PDF

Length: 244 pages
Publication date: December 15, 2025
ISBN: 978-0-9825892-8-1

PRINT

Length: 270 pages
Publication date: March 15, 2026
ISBN: 978-0-9825892-7-4